New Building Projects Affect Robinson and Meiklejohn Halls

Upcoming construction at Robinson and Meiklejohn Halls has the potential to affect instruction.

Robinson Hall: In order to comply with the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), the University is installing an elevator at Robinson Hall. This project includes the installation of an elevator tower and bridge into the building, as well as additional work to the parking area behind Robinson to ensure accessibility from the lot. The work commences on Friday, September 1, 2006 and is expected to conclude in January 2007.

Meiklejohn Hall: One first floor and all second floor restrooms in Meiklejohn Hall will be renovated beginning Tuesday, September 5, 2006. The project is expected to last eight weeks, with the noisy work (jack hammering and other construction noise) conducted during the quarter break. Two restrooms will be renovated at a time to ensure that facilities are always available. Future Capital Renewal dollars will fund additional restroom renovations in this building; thus, we can expect some continued construction work. College faculty and staff will be apprised of the timing of the continued work.
